

In the modern industrial system the importance of Logistics is evident. Logistics is a main company function that concerns many activities such as supply, storage, custody and distribution of raw materials, semifinished and finished products. New tools and working methods allow companies to obtain remarkable advantages both in terms of efficiency and direct and indirect financial saving. The Logistics Division of Zaccaria Agency performs services related to landing, shipment, storage and delivery of goods. It offers a container service, an Ex-Works goods collection service, from domestic and foreign sites delivered with DDP clause, using primary shipping companies, and performing customs, fiscal and health formalities.
